Ambulance-Truck Crash Injures Three

Four were injured in a collision of an ambulance and a pickup truck at 11:40 a.m. today.

The ambulance, enroute to the Missouri Delta Community hospital with a passenger, was traveling north on Main Street.

The driver crossed the intersection of highways 61 and 62 on a red light. He was flashing his emergency light.

The driver of the truck, traveling east on 62, apparently did not see the ambulance and proceeded through the intersection on a green light.

Injured were four passengers in the pickup:

The driver, Ivory M. Harris, 53; his wife, Flora, 54; his sister, Mrs. Mamie Fincher, 52, and her daughter, Gwendolyn Fincher, 10, all of Charleston.

Mrs. Fincher is reported in serious condition with head injuries.

An unidentified cardiac patient was being transferred to Missouri Delta Community hospital in the ambulance and was uninjured in the crash. An ambulance attendant, also unidentified, sustained minor injuries.

The ambulance was hit in the left side and spun around. The ambulance driver controlled his vehicle, avoiding hitting other automobiles traveling near the intersection. The driver proceeded to the hospital, delivered his passenger and called other ambulances to the scene.

One of the women in the truck and its driver were thrown underneath the truck's rear wheels. The driver, apparently not seriously injured was walking at the scene.

The identity of those involved was not immediately available. Highway 61 was blocked temporarily and noon hour traffic was reduced.

A two-car collision on South Main in front of Nancy's Sweet Shop occurred about 10 minutes later. No injuries were reported.

Couple Survives Ordeal Without Food

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) -- An elderly Mormon couple survived six days and nights without food in south Utah's vast and desolate Last Chance Canyon country.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Lloyd lived on slimy, brackish creek water and, Lloyd said, "constant prayer."

"We're resurrected," the old man muttered as he was helped from the rescue plane which brought them to Salt Lake City Friday night.

The ordeal began Oct. 6 when Lloyd, 75, and his wife, 73, decided on a trip to the Red Rock Desert wilderness area. He had two extra days off from his job as an elementary school crossing guard.

Lloyd said a wrong turn led them down the Last Chance

Canyon trail to a point where they couldn't turn the car around. While continuing downward, he said, the car slammed into a "washout" in the road.

Mrs. Lloyd hit the dashboard, gashing her nose and blacking both eyes.

They finally abandoned the car late Saturday and decided to stick to the dry creek bed, which provided an occasional pool of water here and there, rather than try for the rugged plateau above.

The first two days, Lloyd told relatives, the water wasn't too bad. But the farther they traveled, the more brackish it became. "But we drank as much as we could hold," he said. "That kept us alive."

The highway patrol estimated the Lloyds walked about 30 miles in five days.

POOR CHARLEY SAYS! 901 YEARS AGO TODAY

It was on the morning of Oct. 14, 1066 -- just 901 years ago today -- that Duke William and his Normans pushed off from the coast of France to do battle with Harold, son of Godwin who has been named king of England just nine months before, at a place known as Hastings.

William came with 650 flat-bottom boats, carrying horses and knights in armor and even prefabricated forts, ready for the battle that was to be the testing ground for the crusades to come 30 years later. He had the approval of King Philip I of France and the blessings of the Pope.

Harold had come to power because he had proved strongest of the provincial leaders in a loosely organized England. He had just emerged victorious over a Norwegian force under his brother, Tostig, at Stamford Bridge. But he had lost some of his best men and the march of 250 miles in 11 days to meet William's forces had sapped the strength of his hand.

William prevailed in a see-saw battle, rewarding his warriors with large estates that established them as the lords of the new feudal era.

His rule gave England impetus in the building of cathedrals and the introduction of the Norman strain gave England the desire to sail, explore and establish the British Empire which endured until recent years.

There are many lessons to be learned from the Battle of Hastings, but one that should not escape modern tacticians in the art of warfare is the fact that the struggle which began at 9 in the morning was over by 5 in the afternoon.

If you have intelligence, you should try to use it.

THE DATE BOOK: Oct. 15-21, National Business Womens Week; Oct. 18, 1767 (200 years ago), Two Englishmen, names Mason and Dixon, completed a survey which established the border between Pennsylvania and Maryland, and the Mason-Dixon Line came into being; Oct. 18, 1867 (100 years ago), U.S. formally took possession of Alaska; Oct. 18, 1892 (75 years ago), First direct long distance telephone line was opened between New York and Chicago; Oct. 19, 1781 (186 years ago), American revolution ended with surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown, Pa.

Today must be awfully bad considering the way everyone slights it for tomorrow.

It's not possible to shed many tears for the unhappy residents of New York City who have suffered year after year under the worse sort of union tyranny imaginable.

They have asked for it by acceptance of intolerable conditions and giving in first to one pressure group and then another. Strikes of public facilities have been almost continuous.

Those in quasi-public institutions, notably the newspapers, have been no better and if anything worse.

New Yorkers are to blame because they have elected city and state public officials, who refused to enforce laws applying to pressure groups. The officials have permitted the public to suffer all of the inconveniences and indignities these groups can dream up to satisfy their own greed. It may be the Fun City for visitors if there are no strikes, which inconvenience them when they are there, but it is tough every day on the residents.

At last comes a ray of hope.

A state supreme court justice has fined the United Federation of Teachers $150,000 and sentenced its president, Albert Shanker, to 15 days in jail and fined him $250 for criminal contempt of court.

Shanker doesn't care for this treatment. He complains that the law harkens back to rule by kings. To other Americans the refreshing application of the law in New York City looks like a return to sanity and possibly an initial step away from anarchy.

Shanker and his union can be depended upon to fight the punishment all the way through the courts.

Justice may require months.

Hopefully the passage of time will not dull the desire of officialdom to punish Shanker and his union.

Strikes by public employees should not be permitted anywhere.

New York has a new law forbidding them. Since Shanker arrogantly called out the teachers and the strike was in effect 14 school days, he and the union should be punished accordingly.

The punishment appears to be about right for the crime that was committed.

He is not a good talker; but everybody likes to talk with him, because he has his expression under control.

Much as the country needs order brought into its fiscal policies, the 10 per cent income tax surcharge should be applied at once to curb inflationary pressures.

President Johnson is right in declaring that the tax will cost Americans less than the resultant inflation.

From the long range standpoint there is more merit in the position taken by Chairman Wilbur

Mills of the house ways and means committee. The Arkansas Democrat wants a curb on high priced government programs in the future as well as an immediate spending cut.

Immediate spending cuts are desirable but President Johnson isn't going to reduce them in anything like the proportions that Mills and other economy minded congressmen have in mind. He is committed to spending.

The long range goals of Mills have great merit. He has called for creation of another commission patterned after those twice headed by the late President Herbert Hoover.

Since the death of President Hoover and the late Sen. Harry Flood Byrd there has been no effective single voice for economy in the national government not that Congress paid too much attention to either Hoover or Byrd when they were living.

Many of the Hoover commission recommendations were accepted by Congress with great benefit to the executive branch.

Many, of course, were not because Congress in modern times has in the main listened to the advocates of spending.

A successor commission would be made up of highly qualified persons outside government. It would focus a searching look on federal spending and systems of taxation.

Congressman Mills says that it isn't possible for the federal government to have a reasonable tax policy apart from a reasonable spending policy. Today's spending policy as well as those of the past half century haven't been reasonable.

Mills complains that taxes needed to finance unreasonable spending will throw the country into a tailspin.

"We have many programs on the statute books that are 50 years old, many that are 30 years old," Mills says. "Who knows but that some of these may have long outlived their usefulness?"

Who does know?

It's time experts find out.

Outworn programs, such as those administered by the subversive control board, should be discarded.

More efficient tax methods are needed. Some taxes should be eliminated and others reduced. Congress needs guidance in tax reform and in the junking of useless programs.

Congress should act promptly on Mills' suggestion.

Eighty percent of America's nearly 10,000 newspapers are weeklies serving rural, small town and suburban "hometown" communities. Less than four percent are metropolitan dailies; three-fourths of the 1,754 dailies are published in cities of less than 25,000 population.

After a woman is 40, hair styles call for more than she has.

There are men who never reach the height of refinement that they quit referring to what is passed at the table as "grub."

Circulation of the median-size daily is about 10,000 and of the median-size weekly, 3,000.

Divorces seem to be hereditary in families, as well as hair and eyes.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Behind the rosy Vietnam communiqués, the blunt truth is that the South Vietnamese army simply is incapable of holding and pacifying the countryside which the Americans have won from the Viet Cong.

This means U.S. forces will not be able to leave South Vietnam and turn the defense of the country over to the home troops as they did in South Korea following the Korean war. For years to come, American troops will not be able to withdraw from South Vietnam without inviting the Viet Cong to take over.

No less than Secretary of Defense McNamara has admitted privately that the South Vietnamese army does not compare with the South Korean army. If the Americans should pull out of Vietnam following a peace agreement, the South Vietnamese army would not be able to prevent the Viet Cong from moving right back into the positions they occupied before the first American combat troops arrived.

This is one reason for the private pessimism of many top officials regarding the ultimate end of the war.

U.S. military men blame the French for the South Vietnamese army's incompetence. The French failed to build up a qualified Vietnamese officers' corps, so that today it is drastically short of capable leaders. Many of its officers were commissioned more because of whom they knew than what they knew. They also have an appalling record for corruption. Personal greed comes before patriotic duty.

Yet neither the French nor the Vietnamese are fully to blame. After all, the United States has been advising, training and equipping the South Vietnamese army for more than 12 years. One problem that the American advisers taught the South Vietnamese the wrong tactics, namely the outdated warfare of World War II.

NO GUERRILLA TRAINING
The Vietnamese themselves wanted counter-insurgency training and suggested establishing para-military units based on the home grounds they knew best. But only a few para-military outfits were trained by the Green Berets.

The bulk of the South Vietnamese army was drilled in conventional tactics to hold off a Korean-style invasion, which never materialized. The military lessons, which many of the Vietnamese learned well, turned out to be the wrong lessons.

Result: The Viet Cong's style of guerrilla warfare, not unlike that used by our own forefathers to wrest independence from the British, often confounded those who fought by the book.

Not until the Viet Cong abandoned their tested guerrilla tactics and began massing for conventional battles and alienating the populace by conscription and taxation, did they start losing. Their battalions, gathered in jungle bivouacs, unable to disperse among the people, were caught by our spoiling attacks. Disaffected peasants also began passing along intelligence that enabled us to beat the guerrillas at their own game and catch them by surprise.

Gen. William Westmoreland, the American commander, has done a masterful job of fathoming and thwarting Viet Cong tactics. Now the Viet Cong are reverting to their original guerrilla methods. Westmoreland's men have been quick to adjust, but not the South Vietnamese. They have applied the wrong lessons learned from their American advisers.

Belatedly, the U.S. army has tacitly acknowledged its mistake and has started to retrain the South Vietnamese army in the counter-insurgency tactics the Vietnamese wanted to learn 12 years ago.

GOLDWATER COMEBACK
Barry Goldwater, seeking to dig his way out from under the 1964 presidential landslide, is trying hard to get back in the senate. And Arizona's private industry is helping him. Although industry cannot legally engage in partisan political activity, there are many loopholes, and Goldwater is using them skillfully.

For instance, he spoke the other day to more than 50 key employees of Motorola at a private dinner in the posh, new Catamaran restaurant in Scottsdale. The Motorola people, invoking the technicality that they contribute to the company's employee newspapers, invited Goldwater under the guise of the "Motorola Press Club."

Note: Goldwater is hoping to win the seat now occupied by Arizona's ancient Sen. Carl Hayden. Ironically, Barry's speech centered on the state's need for water. He boosted the proposed central Arizona project, which will give the state more water by damming up rivers that run into Mexico. At the same time Hayden used his powerful influence in the senate to force an agreement that the central Arizona project will be brought to a vote early next year.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES
The navy would like to muscle in on the new anti-ballistic missile system. The admirals have argued behind closed pentagon doors that the missiles would be more effective against oncoming warheads if they were launched far out at sea. Then the warheads could be destroyed, theoretically at least, long before they came near the U.S. mainland. Congress will soon pass a bill to protect its own members from violence on Capitol Hill, by barring weapons and demonstrations on the Capitol grounds. However, another bill to protect the general public from violence, the gun control bill barring mail order weapons, is still tied up in the house judiciary committee. Re-

Association lobby opposes the gun control bill. Government inspectors have warned soapmakers that they must comply with the new labeling law and print warnings on labels if their detergents contain strong bleaches that might irritate the eyes or skin.

MANKIND'S SHAME: AGE OF POLLUTION
Mans ability to pollute his environment is seldom dramatized as vividly as it has been in the past few days along the beaches of southwestern England.

This latterday battle of Britain has witnessed planes and bombs being used, not against a humar foe this time, but against an impersonal enemy -- millions upon millions of gallons of crude oil from the wrecked tanker Torrey Canyon.

The final cost of this battle cannot yet be calculated. The black, oozing slime will eventually dissipate -- after a period of years -- but what its lasting effects on marine and bird life will be no one can say.

Great quantities of detergents used on the oil may also create wholesale biological havoc. The economic consequence, to both the fishing and tourism industries, is another imponderable. Huge oil tankers aren't cracked up on the rocks on purpose, of course. Men don't deliberately render miles of beaches unusable or deliberately try to wipe out animal life, especially those species which are directly useful to them.

Yet men are guilty of daily Torrey Canyon depredations on a much smaller scale -- although not so small in their cumulative effect over the long run. Biologists and economists have long been concerned with the leakage and dumping of oil from ships at sea, revealed in oil-covered pilings along the nation's coasts and blobs of tar washing up on shore.

Now, with Hofta imprisoned for at least nine years, Dio's combine is back at its old operation. The mob know an establishment when they see it. So they're going the route again. But they do have a problem -- and that is the network of Manhattan grand juries, one of which indicted Dio on bankruptcy fraud charges. He'll be on trial soon. The tenacious and methodical Bob Morgenthau, seeking convictions, not headlines, has been working quietly on this one for several years.

The Justice Dept. indeed wishes it had more such active headquarters as its Manhattan division. There are some. But not enough. That is why "Pete" Pastore, head of the Justice Dept.'s organized crime and racketeering section, and his chief, Fred Vinson, head of the Criminal Division, have been touring the nation, on and off, for almost a year.

They're shaking up the regional offices. They're developing long-range planning right on the scene. They fly into a city and call their people together. Then they direct their regional staffs to work with the heads of all enforcement and investigatory agencies -- be they the FBI, the Narcotics bureau, the NLRI, the Labor Dept., Compliance Division, IRS, intelligence, the alcohol unit, customs, the Bureau of Drug Abuse Control (especially on the hippies now, S.E.C., and others).

"We want a working technique," one Justice Dept. official said the other day, "not a publicity gimmick. We set up these meetings in advance. We want to know what our people are doing. We want a planned program. We sit down and work things out, not just for today or tomorrow but for two years hence. We want our people to know that fighting organized crime will be a continuing operation."

Most recently, the Justice Dept. "home office" people, including Attorney General Clark this time, were in Chicago. Before that, late in September, they were in Lake County, Ind. and before that in 14 other cities -- from San Francisco to Miami, from Boston to Pittsburgh, from Detroit to St. Louis, from Los Angeles to Kansas City.

To a marine biologist at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute on Cape Cod, as quoted by the Wall Street Journal, "It is another manifestation of everybody's disregard for the environment. We figure we can abuse the environment in any way and get away with it. That's becoming obviously false."

An International Convention on Prevention of Oil Pollution of the Sea prohibits the discharge of oily wastes in large areas of the world's waters, particularly surrounding coasts. The time is coming on this shrinking planet when even "all great Neptune's ocean" will not be vast enough to tolerate such practices.

Accidents are one thing, deliberate pollution is another. Torrey Canyon disasters do not happen very often, fortunately. But when they do, they underscore in a way everyone can understand the increasingly urgent need for men to call a halt to their reckless abuse of the environment -- on the land as well as at sea.

A young woman phoned the local weather bureau. "I'm going to be married tomorrow," she said happily, "and we're going up to the mountains for our honeymoon. Can you please tell me what is going to be happening up there over the weekend?"

LIFESAVING RESEARCH
Rare is the person who at some time in the past few years has not had occasion to hear something like the following from his physician or pharmacist: "We have an improved medication that will bring you relief very shortly." These are encouraging words when someone is ill. Seldom does the layman stop to consider how it happens that as the months and years pass there always seems to be a new and improved drug available, when an emergency arises.

The fact is that the drugs are there when needed because of the never-ending costly research and development carried on by major drug firms. More than a million dollars is being spent every day by the pharmaceutical industry to discover and perfect new pre-

Cosa Nostra's "Young" Johnny Dio Swiftly Becoming Its Top Account Executive in Charge of Labor Operations.

Washington, D.C.: -- Young blood always will out -- especially in the complex called the Cosa Nostra.

And prosper, too. Thus it has come to pass that Mafia elders are dotingly watching the progress of their brightest scion, John (Johnny Dio) Dioguardi, to whom Jimmy Hoffa once offered any job Dio wanted in the Teamsters.

Mrs. Lemmons' Parents Mark 50th Anniversary in Florida

BRADENTON, FLA. — Last Saturday marked the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Thomas, Sr. The occasion was celebrated at an open house given in their honor by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Thomas, Jr. of Bradenton and their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Lemmons of Bell City, Mo., Sunday from 2 p.m. until 5 at the Thomas home, 2316 14th Ave. West.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas were married Oct. 7, 1917, at the home of her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hickerson, of Manchester, Tenn. W. S. Long, minister of the Central Christian church, officiated in the presence of family and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas lived in Manchester for several years after their marriage, then moved to Florida in 1921. In 1928 they moved from Arcadia to Bradenton where they have lived ever since.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas are the parents of two children, W. A. Thomas, Jr. and Mrs. C. G. Lemmons, five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. All were present for the occasion except two grandchildren who were away in college.

Upon arrival, guests were greeted at the door by Thomas Lemmons, a grandson, assisted by Mrs. Joe Andrews, who registered them in the guest book. Mrs. Thomas wore for the occasion a double-knit three piece baby blue suit with navy accessories, complemented by a five yellow rose bud corsage, each bud representing 10 years of marriage.

The house was decorated with fern palms and floral arrangements from family and friends graced tables. The serving table was overlaid with a white lace tablecloth over gold. A large silver punch bowl was at one end with silver chandelabra with gold tapers and a silver coffee service at the other.

Silver compotes with yellow mints and a silver shell dish with nuts also were used. The focal point was a three tiered cake iced in white with hues of yellow and gold roses and leaves and a "50" placed on top. The lace was surrounded with green leather fern and yellow blossoms.

Serving for the occasion were: Mrs. Dayle Jones, sister of Mrs. Thomas, from Hattiesburg, Miss.; Mrs. J. D. Stokes, granddaughter of the Thomas' of Bradenton; Mrs. W. L. Budd, granddaughter of the Thomas' of New Smyrna Beach, Fla.; Mrs. Bennie T. Hesselrode and Mrs. Hassel Lemmons, both of Bell City, Mo.

Golden punch, cake, coffee, mints and nuts were served to over 200 guests who called during the afternoon.

Gifts were displayed on a table covered with a white lace cloth. A gold money tree centered the table with a white floral piece made up of white mums and snapdragons with golden leaves on the mantle above. This was sent by Mrs. Thomas' Sunday school class of the First Baptist church of which she has been a member and teacher for 20 years.

Soft organ music was rendered by Miss Margaret Kennedy, retired organist for the First Baptist church and long time friend. The organ was furnished by Raymond Hullinger, childhood friend of Mrs. Lemmons.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will be remembered by many in the Bell City, Mo., area as they have visited there the past 20 summers.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Hesselrode, Mrs. Hassel Lemmons and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Lemmons and son, Thomas, all of Bell City.

Coins given to UNICEF's Trick or Treaters on Halloween mean help and hope for millions of sick and hungry children all over the world.

POPLAR BLUFF -- The Cape feated Mules. They almost did Girardeau Central high school it. Tigers came to Poplar Bluff Area grid fans braved rain last night with one purpose in and foggy weather to see one of mind -- to knock off the unde- the best high school grid clash- es as two of the northern con- ference grid powers put the undefeated records on the line. It was a happy home town crowd when the final horn sounded with the Mules notching their 20th consecutive victory over a three- year span, beating Cape Girar- deau Central's defensive minded Tigers, 6-0.

Tigers from title hopes. Sikeston is the only team that stands in the way of the Mules and their second straight Conference championship.

Both grid powers battled through a scoreless first half with Cape dominating play and holding good field positions, getting to the Mules four and nine yard lines on two occasions but failing to penetrate for a score.

John Brown, the Mules 1966 all-state fullback, stole the show with an interception and the Mules' only score. He set up the drive with a mid-field interception and three plays later crashed through from one yard out with nine minutes left.

The second half was dominated by the host after the TD they scrambled for another score but it was nullified by a penalty. When the final gun sounded, the field announcer quipped on the public address system:

"Folks, that was one hell of a ball game."

DEXTER -- Wahoo... Bearcat stew... Sikeston's mighty offensive and defensive units excelled in the Bulldogs' fifth season football performance last night. They handed the southern conference's number one team, Dexter Bearcats, a 45-7 setback, first of six appearances.

Rain and fog coupled with the Dexter defense failed to stop the first Bulldog crew last night as it came... aiming to please... not only their fans but themselves. They rolled up a 26-point first quarter and coasted in for their fifth win of the season against no losses.

Dennis Snelling and Eddie Felker ignited the offensive spurge with a pair of touchdowns each in the first period. The swift half-back broke lose for a first play of the game kickoff return touch- down of 85 yards. It came after a rekick on an offside call on the Cats.

Dexter seemed to do no right... and saw their first drive of the game stall at the Sikeston four- yard line and could not get the momentum to threaten until the third period. David Rendleman plunged over from one yard out for six points and Ron Atherton ended the Cats' scoring for the night with the extra point con- version.

It was the fifth season victory for Bill Sapp's crew and its ninth triumph consecutive in two years.

After Snelling's kickoff return TD, Felker raced 94 yards for the second score. Dexter had failed in its bid at the Dogs' four. The score advanced to 13-0 after Webb Edwards converted.

Felker set up an eight-yard colt won that race, a test of one mile and an eighth. But early in the running, Mac broke a sesa- mold bone in his right foot.

Mac, ridden by Willie Shoe- maker, ran the last three-quar- ters of a mile with the broken bone.

Chances are Minnesota Mac, if he doesn't return to race in 1968, will go to stud.

Felker eight-yard score after an 82-yard Snelling run. Edwards converted, giving the Bulldogs a 26-0 first period lead.

From the beginning of the second period Coach Sapp used each member of the squad with the exception of Bruce Farris, who failed to see action due to ill- ness.

Farris' replacement, Terry Watkins, called the Bulldog sig- nals during most of the first half before giving way to Duffy Robinett, who was not on the dressing roster before the game.

Sikeston had little trouble with the Dexter offense after the de- fense adjusted to the Bearcats' short passing attack, which they used in their first drive.

The Bulldog secondary picked off five Dexter passes; one for a 35-yard TD by Terry Bryant. Felker hauled in one and re- turned it two yards. Pat Hall returned one six yards. Bill Carr took one four yards and Mike Thrower carried one back 12 yards.

Sikeston amassed 501 yards in 49 plays, 425 on 40 rushing plays and 76 on five of nine passes while fumbling twice and recov- ering twice, while picking up 12 first downs to Dexter's 16. The Bearcats ran 38 plays for 172 yards and hit on six of 31 pass- es for 94 yards and a total of- ense of 266 yards.

David Newberry's six-yard run in the second period pushed the Sikeston squad into an unbeliev- able 32-0 lead. The TD was set up on a pass play that covered 44 yards from Watkins to Arthur Jackson.

Turner Marshall and Jackson, getting their first big chance to work out at the offensive posi- tions stymied the Sikeston crew until its second half spurge.

Jackson opened the third per- iod with a 20-yard TD run only to be called back. He teamed ant's 44-yard interception run- able 32-0 lead. The TD was set up on a pass play that covered 44 yards from Watkins to Arthur Jackson.

Sikeston picked up a Bearcat second half. fumble on the next play on the one-yard stripe and Duffie Rob- inett plunged through two plays. The Bulldogs' final tally came will travel to Cape Girardeau in the third period on Terry Bry- for a northern match.

Bootheel Tigers Romp Over Eagles

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Caruth- ersville's Tigers snapped their three-game losing streak last night on their home field defeating the East Prairie Eagles, 26-0. The win for the Tigers gave the Eagles their sixth loss of the season.

East Prairie could manage only one strong threat that was stopped on the Tiger one-yard line by a good defensive effort in the first quarter. From then on, it was all Caruthersville. The Tigers amassed close to 500 total yards in the game while al- lowing the Eagles to tally only 145 yards.

The home team came to life in the third quarter scoring 19 of their 26 points. Quarterback Don Smith tossed three touchdown passes in the quarter. Kenny Bruce hauled in the first TD pass that was good for 24 yards. Mike Fisher booted the extra point.

Terry Thomas and Harland Car- mean were Smith's next targets as he connected on scoring toss- es to these two receivers for nine and 46-yard receptions. Both PAT's failed.

The fourth period saw Fisher adding six points on a 12-yard carry. He also notched the ex- tra point.

Harland Carmean was noted as one of the outstanding players for his defensive work. Carmean made seven unassisted tackles and three assists.

Next week Caruthersville treks to Portageville in a Southern conference battle as the East Prairie Eagles meet Gideon in a home contest.

COURAGEOUS HORSE CHICAGO (AP) -- Minnesota Mac was a highly regarded 3-year-old until the Chicago Hand- icap at Arlington Park.

The Johnny Neud-trained colt won that race, a test of one mile and an eighth. But early in the running, Mac broke a sesa- mold bone in his right foot.

Hill Tribe Rocks Red Devil Hopes

CINCINNATI (AP) -- The Cincinnati Royals, who have managed only four victories in 11 exhibition games, hope the return of superstar Oscar Robertson will help them get back on the winning track when regu- lar season play begins for them Tuesday.

The Big O signed a three-year contract with the National Bas- ketball Association club Friday after a long hold-out. Although terms were not disclosed, the 6-foot-5 Robertson reportedly will receive an estimated $115,000 a year.

Robertson, 28, has regularly scored about one-fourth of the Royals' points since he joined the club seven years ago. His career average is 30.4 points a game.

This is the third straight year Robertson has held out for high- er pay.

Think school is a laugh?
(See how funny it is when you can't get a good-paying job.)

A small education is something you can't laugh off. It's the biggest handicap you'll ever have... today, tomorrow, the day after tomorrow, and every day of your working life.

And it's a funny thing. People who really stay with it and get a good education are often seen laughing all the way to the bank.

It's no joke. To get a good job today, you need a good education. A good education is the number-one requirement for the better jobs with the better salaries... and the better futures, too.

So if you're in school now... stay there! Learn all you can for as long as you can. If you're out of school, you can still get lots of valuable training outside the classroom. Just call on the Youth Counselor at your State Employment Service. Or visit a Youth Opportunity Center, which has been set up in many cities to help you.

To get a good job, get a good education

Girl, 12, Told to Keep Boy Cousin Out of Bedroom While She Dresses

Dear Ann Landers: I am 12 and started to wear a bra four months ago. My nine-year-old cousin (boy) who lives next door likes to come into my bedroom while I am getting dressed. He has started to tease me about my bra in front of other people, telling me I wear a girdle "up there." I get very embarrassed and would like your advice on how I can get this brat to keep his big mouth shut. -- BLUSHED OUT

Dear Blushed: What's a nine-year-old cousin (boy) doing in your bedroom while you are getting dressed? Keep him out and you won't have to worry about his big mouth.

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to comment on the letter from the mother who was upset about her 17-year-old daughter going steady with a young man she did not approve of. Your advice was perfect. I wish every mother in the world could read it.

My mother made my life miserable because she dislabeled the boy I was going with. I was 17, no longer a child, and I presented her bossiness. Naturally, the more she talked against Joe the more determined I was to keep going with him. After a few months I realized he really wasn't much, and the main reason I kept seeing him was because my mother hated him so.

The day before Christmas Mom said, "Give up. If you are really in love with Joe I will try to see the qualities in him that you think are so wonderful."

That did it. New Year's Eve I broke up with him and felt as if a 10-ton weight had been lifted from my shoulders. I would have done it several months sooner if my mother had stayed out of it. I am sure she learned from that experience because she never talked against any fellow again. I am happily married now and Mother is crazy about my husband, but I never knew it until I got my ring. -- CLOSE CALL

Dear Close: There's no substitute for experience, and yours is a classic. Thank you for being so honest. Not every girl would be willing to lay it on the line as you did.

Dear Ann Landers: I have read many letters in your column from people who are fed up on money showers and other poorly disguised gimmicks for getting cash out of friends and relatives. I attended a pre-shower party yesterday which was the last straw. It was held at the home of the bride-to-be. Her mother and aunt co-hosted the party. On the dining room table were displayed several appliances, (toaster, electric percolator, can opener, blending machine, steam iron) stacks of bed linen, a place setting of china and several pieces of silver. The prices were all in evidence. The bride's aunt announced, "These lovely things have not been purchased--only borrowed from the stores. We would like you people to write down what you'd like to give the bride as a wedding gift. We will phone you and let you know if someone has already spoken for that particular gift. In this way we will avoid duplicates."

Am I wrong to feel this is just about the bottom of the barrel? What would you do under the circumstances? -- INSULTED

Dear Insulted: I'd ignore all hints, guides and suggestions and buy the bride something that was not being touted.

Confidential to: Worried: It sounds as if you have something to worry about. But how can you expect ME to know the answer? The quickest way to find out is a rabbit test. See your doctor. Is alcoholism a disease? How can the alcoholic be treated? Is there a cure? Read the booklet "Alcoholism -- Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35¢ in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

EXPORT BUSINESS STOPPED
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Three Lebanese mechanics have been arrested for carrying on an enterprising but illegal export business, sending stolen cars in pieces to Turkey.

Police claim the three men wanted the streets of Beirut with a Turkish accomplice who would pick out a likely looking vehicle. The three would then steal it, take it apart and send the components across the Lebanese and Syrian borders into Turkey to be reassembled. They exported 23 cars before they were caught, police said.

Sodium Chlorate Can Cause Burn Injuries

Sodium chlorate in contact with a flammable material is a fire hazard. This material is a soil sterilant used to kill scattered Johnson grass plants. It is widely used in Southeast Missouri.

Pure sodium chlorate will not burn but clothing, dry vegetation, wood, or any other flammable material can produce a flash fire when mixed with it.

Several were burned during the summer of 1967 from it according to the burn injury study program of the Missouri division of health. All burns were of a serious nature and required attention by a physician. They ranged from two per cent of the body burned to 90 per cent. One case involved a child playing with the material and the other cases involved men applying sodium chlorate to Johnson grass.

A misconception about sodium chlorate is that it will burn when mixed with water. This is not true. Dry sodium chlorate will burn any time it is in contact with a flammable material. When the spray dries on clothing, or other flammable material it will ignite with only a small amount of heat. Friction will cause ignition.

Precautions to follow when using sodium chlorate are (1) prevent, as nearly as possible, contamination of clothing, floors of buildings, truck beds or wagon boxes, etc. (2) Thoroughly wash contaminated clothing or equipment as soon as spraying job is completed. (3) Do not use on vegetation near buildings. (4) Do not walk or drive over freshly treated areas. (5) Keep livestock away from treated areas until there has been a rain following treatment.

Several brands of materials containing sodium chlorate are on the market. Most of these contain a fire retarding material such as borates or calcium chlorate. These materials are more expensive than sodium chlorate but they are safer to use.

If You Were the Judge Garlicky Breath Helps Convict Masked Gunman

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

A masked gunman entered O'Leary's bar and grill and announced a hold-up. Actually, he didn't need the gun since he could have held off his victims by merely blowing on them. His garlicky breath was so bad, one whiff could have paralyzed anyone.

Several days later, Alfredo was arrested and charged with having committed the hold-up. While the witnesses were able to identify him, they became absolutely positive they had identified the right man when Alfredo admitted that he ate spaghetti regularly smothered in garlic sauce.

"He's the right guy all right," they all agreed. "He not only looks like the hold-up man, he smells like him too."

"Balony," was Alfredo's answer. "Bad breath is no basis for identifying an alleged criminal. Nor is it a crime to have bad breath. Therefore, you've got to let me go."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you jail garlic-loving Alfredo?

This is how the Judge ruled: Yes! The Judge held that the identification of Alfredo by the witnesses, with the fact that he was a garlic eater, was sufficient to establish that he had committed the hold-up. (Based upon a 1958 New Jersey Supreme Court Decision)

Flying Saucer Cotton Angle Disputed in Harvest Horse's Death Begins

ALAMOSA, Colo., (AP) -- Snippy the horse may have been done in by an infection and varmint of the prairie, but he certainly was not killed by a flying saucer, a Colorado State University scientist says.

Dr. Robert O. Adams of the university's college of veterinary medicine and biomedical sciences, examined the carcass of the horse, which was found Friday there, and reported that the cause of death was a bacterial infection.

"I know it's going to pop the bubble, but the horse was not killed by a flying saucer," he said.

The flying saucer theory was advanced by Snippy's owner, Mrs. Berle Lewis, after the 3-year-old Appaloosa gelding's carcass was found on a remote prairie 20 miles northeast of here, with all flesh stripped from the neck and head.

Mrs. Lewis also reported finding exhaust-like marks in the area, a high level of radioactivity and no tracks around the horse.

Two Schools Near Obsolescence

CHARLESTON -- An unfavorable report on the condition of the Eugene Field and Mark Twain school buildings from George D. Englehart, Jefferson City, director, school building services, state department of education, was read to the R-4 board of Education by Supt. Tom Wells.

The board postponed action on calling a bond issue election for new elementary buildings, pending completion of a tabulation of the assessed valuation of state-assessed railroad and utilities property in the district.

In his report, Dr. Englehart said he examined the two buildings Sept. 27, and found that they "are approaching a stage of structural educational obsolescence that makes them undesirable and unsatisfactory for continued use."

Three Elements in Wheat Fertilization

Extension Area Soils Agent PORTAGEVILLE -- The kind, amount and when to apply fertilizer is one of the first decisions a farmer must make when planting wheat this fall. If your soil hasn't been tested during the past three or four years, a soil sample should be taken to determine lime and fertilizer needs.

Wheat does best in a pH range from 5.5 to 6.5. If lime is needed, it should be applied according to recommendations.

Wheat fertilization can be broken down into three different categories: 1) starter at planting; 2) time of nitrogen application; and 3) rate of nitrogen application.

A starter is usually considered to be a complete fertilizer, containing a small amount of nitrogen, phosphate and potash. A starter should always be applied at planting, on sandy and silt loam soils that test medium to low in phosphate and potash. Little or no direct response can be expected on heavy textured soils testing high to very high in these elements.

Results of six years research show that a starter of 10 to 12 pounds nitrogen and 30 to 50 pounds of phosphate and potash at planting increased yields on all soils except those testing high to very high. The increase was 6.4 bushels on sandy soils, 2.7 on clays, and 35.3 on very low testing silt loam soils.

Starters have not directly increased yields enough on high testing soils to offset fertilizer cost. However, 90 per cent or more of our wheat is followed by soybeans. It is well known that soybean yields are usually increased if they follow a well-fertilized crop. Due to this increase in yield a starter is always recommended unless the soil tests very, very, high.

In wheat experiments conducted at the Delta Center, nitrogen was applied at four different times, planting - January - March - and April. The same rate of nitrogen was used at each time.

Highest yields were produced on each soil type when the N was applied from February 15 to March 15. The March topdressing increased yields an average of 4.9 bushels on sandy soils. The increase for four of these six years was 7.3 bushels per acre. The six-year average increase was 3.1 on sandy loam and 4.6 on clay soils.

Nitrogen should always be top-dressed in March on sandy soils because in some years 50 per cent or more of the N can be lost by leaching. On poorly drained loam or clay soils, the decision is more difficult. All the N can be applied at or just prior to planting or in January with only a four-bushel reduction in yield. This is a decision the farmer must make.

According to research at the Delta Center, the most economical rate of nitrogen to apply is 50 to 75 pounds per acre. Less N is needed on loam soils that have sufficient organic matter to release most of the nitrogen required.

Always apply a starter containing 10 to 12 pounds of nitrogen and 30 to 50 pounds of phosphate and potash each, on all but very high testing soils in these elements. Topdress nitrogen from February 15 to March 15 for highest yields on all soil types, especially sands.

Nitrogen can be applied at planting, December or January, on all but sandy soils. If this is done, a reduction in yield of four to five bushels per acre usually occurs. A total of 50 to 70 pounds of nitrogen should be applied each year. The low rate for loam soils and the higher rate for sandy and clay soils.

Fleetwood Joins Soybean Association

HUDSON, Iowa -- J. Ross Fleetwood, retired extension agronomist at the University of Missouri, in Columbia, serve as a field representative for the American Soybean Association and the Missouri Soybean Association on a part-time basis during the winter, Chet Randolph, executive vice president of the national association, and Arline Avery, president of the Missouri Soybean Association, announce.

Fleetwood was a Missouri extension worker 41 years before his retirement. He was closely associated with the growth of the soybean crop in Missouri. In 1924, the year he entered extension work, the total Missouri crop was only 360,000 bushels, but totaled 85 million bushels last year and replaced corn as the state's No. 1 cash crop. He lives on a 100-acre farm near Columbia.

Sharp Price Loss In Hog Trading Recovered Late

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, Ill., - After dipping to a 5 1/2-month low early in the week under the weight of heavy receipts, the hog market recovered last as farm supplies abated, according to St. Louis Producers Live Stock Marketing Association. Cattle were under more or less buyer pressure and lambs strengthened.

Salable cattle, calves, hogs and sheep of slightly less than 52,000 head were up from the 45,094 the previous week but smaller than the 53,127 a year ago.

A Thursday-Friday upturn of 75¢ to $1.75 in barrow and gilt hogs served to erase early losses to top closing values steady to 25¢ higher than a week ago. Friday's hog top of $19.00 cwt. compared with peaks of $19.75 a week ago and $22.50 a year ago. Sows finished steady to 50¢ off on weights under 400 lbs. and steady to 25¢ higher on those over 400 lbs. Late sales were downward from $17.00.

Cautious buying continued in cattle and prices were lower for the second consecutive week. Bearish factors in the trade included a further drop in pork costs, reports of large turkey stocks for the holidays and confirmation of record crops of feed grains.

Slaughter steers were mostly 25¢ lower, instances 50¢ off; heifers dropped 25 to 50¢ and cows sustained a loss of 50¢ to $1.00. Bulls remained unchanged.

High choice and prime 925-1250 lb. slaughter steers reached $27. to $27.25. Bulk of Choice steers 950-1175 lbs. turned at $26.25 at 27; mixed Good and Choice $25.25 to 26.25; Good $24. to 25.50 and Standard $21.50 to 23.50. Average and high Choice heifers, some with an end of Prime, 850 to 975 lbs., realized $25.50 to 26.25; Choice 750 to 950 lbs. $24.50 to 25.75; Good $22.50 to 24.50 and Standard $20.00 to 22.50.

Veal calves held steady, Choice $29 to 32, a few $33. Slaughter calves, on the other hand, sold weak to $1 lower with Good and Choice at $18 to 22. Declining for the second straight week, feeder steers and heifers rated steady to 50 cents down. Slaughter lambs figured steady to strong, with some choice as much as 50 cents higher. Top late reached $24.50. Slaughter ewes held unchanged at $5 to $7.

HARVEST ALL YOU GROW
Would you like to make an extra 5 to 10 dollars of profit on each of soybeans this year?

This is possible if you can reduce harvesting losses 2-4 bu. per acre. The following tips on reducing harvesting losses were written by Edward J. Consten, Extension Agricultural Engineer.

Soybean losses frequently amount to 15 to 20% of the standing crop and the average is above 10%. Some of these losses are unavoidable but harvesting on time and keeping the combine adjusted will keep these losses to a minimum.

Pre-harvest losses are small if harvest is completed before the beans become too dry. Soybeans should be harvested before the moisture content reaches 10%. Losses increase rapidly after this point. An Ohio study found losses increased at the rate of 1% per day delay after the moisture content dropped below 10%.

Moisture contents of beans on the same plant frequently vary as much as 20 percent at harvest time. This makes it difficult to determine optimum harvest moisture content. It is usually safer to select an average harvest moisture content on the damp side rather than on the extremely dry side.
